

Dear Hiring Team,

I am writing to apply for the Global Revenue Strategy & Operations Manager role at Wolt. Wolt's multi-market growth, commercial complexity, and focus on disciplined execution are a strong fit for the way I have worked across strategy, analytics, and operational leadership in fast-moving international environments.

In my recent role as VP Real Estate at Numa Group, I partnered with senior C-level and investment stakeholders on strategic priorities, translated complex analysis into clear decisions, and led end-to-end transactions from sourcing through signing. I also managed a team of 3-5 analysts, built structured workflows, and improved underwriting and decision-making processes to support a high-volume pipeline. Earlier, as an Investment Analyst at Bob W and an Associate in Real Estate Finance at WeWork, I developed business cases, prepared leadership-ready materials, and coordinated across multiple teams to convert analysis into action. That background has made me comfortable working on ambiguous problems, aligning stakeholders, and turning priorities into practical workstreams.

What I would bring to Wolt is a strong blend of analytical rigour and operational ownership. I have built and improved frameworks for performance monitoring, workflow design, and cross-functional coordination, and I am used to working in environments where clarity, follow-through, and communication matter as much as the analysis itself. I also bring trilingual capability in Russian, English, and German, alongside strong skills in SQL, Python, and Tableau, which would support structured reporting, scalable processes, and collaboration with analytics teams across markets.

Wolt's regional, multi-stakeholder setup is exactly the kind of environment where I can add value quickly. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my background in strategy execution and operational improvement could support your commercial teams.

Best regards,

Daria Bystrova
